Normal CT Head (Brain) Anatomy

Ed1.1
2016

Sam E Penry BSc(Hons) PGCert(Lond) GCP(Primary Care)
This work is licensed under a
Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License
RT temporal lobe (region)
RT frontal lobe (region)

RT temporal lobe (region)
RT frontal lobe (region)

RT temporal lobe (region)
RT frontal lobe (region)

RT temporal lobe (region)

Pons

Fourth ventricle

Cerebellum (RT cerebellar hemisphere)
Fourth ventricle

Third ventricle

Fourth ventricle
Right lateral ventricle
Right lateral ventricle
Right lateral ventricle

Choroid Plexus (calcified)
Right lateral ventricle

Choroid Plexus (calcified)
Right lateral ventricle
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
Cerebral Falx
(also known as falx cerebri)
• Brain Stem = consists of the Pons, midbrain, medulla oblongata and continues inferiorly to create the spinal cord
• Citation details:

• PENRY S, 2016 “Normal CT Head (Brain) Anatomy” The Research Radiographer.